Make your home safe – get a smoke alarm!

Are you aware that ...?

- A working smoke alarm could save you and your family in a fire
- Many people are injured in fires
- Most fires start in the kitchen, especially when using hot oil for frying
- Broken electrical appliances cause about 6,000 fires a year
- Many fires are started by cigarettes

Getting help to choose your smoke alarm

If you're not sure which smoke alarm to pick, ask at your neighbourhood fire station. The firefighters will be very happy to help you and give you the best safety advice.

Make sure your smoke alarm is working

Push the button on your smoke alarm every week to make sure it still works. If there's no sound when you press the button, change the batteries immediately. It's important to replace the batteries around the same time every year. Put a date in your diary.

If your smoke alarm goes off by mistake, don't remove the batteries. Instead, you should wait for the noise to stop. If you hear a slow beep – beep – beep sound coming from your smoke alarm, this means you should replace the batteries as soon as possible.
